We then pan over to a child sitting at the party looking at his mother with an annoyed look on his face.

Mother: Mother (to child): You've got school tomorrow bub. I'll just have one more.

Visual: Four guys sitting on the trayback of a ute in footy uniforms whilst a group of pre-teen boys are kicking a footy around in front of them. Man 1 gets the last of the beers out of the esky.

We pan to the boys rolling their eyes as they walk to the car.

Man 1: It's just one more each and that's it. I got more at my place,
(to others) follow me – I'll take you mob down the backstreets. (to kids) C'mon kids!
Let's go!

Visual: Two guys in high vis shirts on a building site and man 2 holds out an open beer to man 1 who is holding his car keys.

Man 1: Gotta run and pick my kid up from netball.

Man 2: But I've just cracked one more, you wouldn't want to waste it

Visual: Cut to a girl sitting on the kerb outside the empty netball courts in the late afternoon looking annoyed and upset.

Child:
(to camera): Just one more could put you over. Grow Up!

Visual: SUPER Drink driving? Grow up.
